No date fixed on Karnataka leadership change, says Kharge

Cong president says leadership decisions will be taken collectively after detailed consultations

KALABURAGI

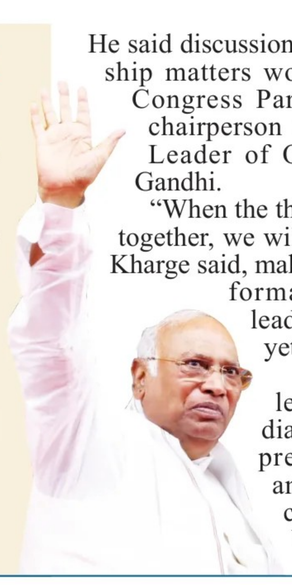
Amid continuing speculation over a possible leadership change in Karnataka, Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge on Friday clarified that no date has been fixed to discuss the issue and said any decision would be taken collectively by the party high command.

The remarks come against the backdrop of growing reports of a power tussle between Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister D. K. Shivakumar within the Karnataka Congress.

Speaking to reporters, Kharge said the Congress leadership follows a detailed consultative process before arriving at any major political decision.

Leadership Buzz in Karnataka

Speculation over Karnataka leadership has intensified ahead of the Congress government completing half its term. Supporters of D K Shivakumar have openly backed a leadership transition, while Siddaramaiah has maintained that he intends to continue as Chief Minister for the full five-year tenure unless directed otherwise by the party high command.



He said discussions related to leadership matters would involve him, Congress Parliamentary Party chairperson Sonia Gandhi and Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi.

"When the three of us fix a date together, we will take a decision," Kharge said, making it clear that no formal discussion on leadership change has yet been scheduled.

He cautioned party leaders and the media against misinterpreting his remarks and stressed that no conclusion should be drawn until the high command officially takes a decision. Kharge also underlined that any eventual decision regarding Karnataka leadership would be made keeping the interests of the state and the party in mind. He added that once a decision is taken by the high command, it would have to be accepted and supported by all leaders and workers in the party.

Political speculation over a possible change in leadership has intensified in recent weeks amid claims of a power-sharing arrangement in the Karnataka Congress government. Supporters of Shivakumar have repeatedly hinted at a possible transition, while Siddaramaiah has maintained that he intends to complete a full five-year term as Chief Minister.

Centre burdening citizens with LPG price hike: DK Shivakumar

Deputy CM says repeated commercial LPG hikes are hurting small businesses and consumers.

BENGALURU

Karnataka Deputy Chief Minister D K Shivakumar on Friday criticised the Union government over the steep increase in commercial LPG cylinder prices, alleging that the Centre was placing an unfair financial burden on ordinary citizens and small businesses.

Reacting to the latest revision in commercial LPG rates, Shivakumar said the cost of a 19-kg cylinder in Bengaluru had risen sharply to Rs 3,152 after an increase of nearly Rs 991 in a single day.

Addressing reporters at the KPCC office, he accused the Centre of repeatedly increasing the prices of essential commodities, including fuel, fertilisers and cooking gas, thereby affecting middle and lower-income groups.

Shivakumar said this was the third major LPG price hike in recent months and warned that the increase would trigger a rise in food prices across hotels and eateries.

He noted that small hotels, roadside vendors and local food businesses were already struggling to cope with rising operational expenses and may now be forced to increase menu prices to survive.

The Deputy Chief Minister also mocked the Centre's policies, saying rising LPG costs were pushing people back towards traditional cooking methods using firewood instead of clean energy alternatives.

His remarks come amid indications from the Bengaluru Hotel Association that food prices could rise by around 10 per cent due to mounting input costs.

Shivakumar further urged Union Ministers from Karnataka to respond to the concerns of traders, hoteliers and common citizens affected by fluctuating fuel prices.

"The Central government always puts the burden on the common man."

Karnataka orders twin probes into Bowring Hospital wall collapse

BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has constituted two inquiry committees to investigate the tragic compound wall collapse at Bowring and Lady Curzon Hospital in Bengaluru that claimed seven lives following heavy rains earlier this week.

The government has directed both committees to submit their findings within a week amid mounting criticism over civic negligence and poor infrastructure maintenance in the city.

The first committee, headed by the Deputy Commissioner of Bengaluru Urban district, will conduct an administrative inquiry into the incident. The Yelahanka Tehsildar has been appointed as a member of the panel.

In addition, a separate technical experts committee has been formed to determine the exact structural reasons behind the collapse of the hospital's compound wall. The committee will be headed by retired Public Works Department Chief Engineer Mohan K, while the Chief Engineer (Buildings), PWD, will serve as member secretary.

- Death toll: 7
- Committees formed: 2
- Report deadline: 1 week
- Location: Bowring & Lady Curzon Hospital, Bengaluru
- Technical panel head: Mohan K, retired PWD Chief Engineer

Other members include senior engineers from the Public Works Department's quality control, planning and subdivision wings.

The Terms of Reference for the committees include examining when the wall was constructed, whether maintenance was carried out as per norms, if nearby construction activity weakened the structure, and whether the wall had exceeded its structural lifespan. The incident occurred amid intense rainfall across Bengaluru, which has exposed vulnerabilities in ageing civic infrastructure and triggered public outrage over safety standards in government premises.

Congress doing vote-bank politics over Muslim grants: R. Ashoka

BENGALURU

Accusing the Congress of selective appeasement, Leader of Opposition R. Ashoka said the party, which claims to support "equal share for all," is extending special grants only to Muslims while ignoring Dalits and backward communities.

Speaking to reporters in Bengaluru on May 1, Ashoka alleged that the Congress is indulging in vote-bank politics and claimed that growing dissatisfaction among Muslims in Davanagere had triggered internal political action within the ruling party.

He said Hindus would respond strongly to such policies. Targeting the Congress leadership, Ashoka referred to AICC President Mallikarjun Kharge's recent temple-related participation and said it had triggered political discussions about a possible leadership change in Karnataka.

He said while earlier there was speculation that Deputy Chief Minister D. K. Shivakumar would become Chief Minister, attention was now shifting towards Kharge.

He further remarked that instead of a change in leadership, it would be better if the government itself collapsed.

Referring to internal differences between Siddaramaiah and Shivakumar, he said the situation had already turned into a "political drama" and added that any new leadership development would also be closely watched.

"Hindu voters will give a strong reply to this selective appeasement politics being followed by the Congress."

TVK Office Set Ablaze in TN Ahead of Counting Day

CHENNAI

Tension gripped Tamil Nadu's Srirangam after a local office of the Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) was vandalised and partially set on fire late Thursday night, just days before Assembly election counting scheduled for May 4.

According to police, CCTV footage from the area captured two unidentified men arriving near the office, entering the premises and leaving shortly afterwards. By Friday morning, party posters and banners featuring TVK chief and actor-turned-politician Vijay were found damaged and torn outside the office.

Police officials said no injuries were reported and the damage caused by the fire appeared limited. "It is a small office and the loss seems minimal. We suspect two individuals were involved and are investigating how the fire was started," a police official from Srirangam said.

Authorities added that no formal case has been registered yet as the party had not filed an official complaint till Friday evening.

The incident comes amid heightened political activity and growing anticipation over the election results. Several exit polls have predicted a strong performance for TVK in its electoral debut, increasing political excitement across the state.

Party leaders have also intensified vigilance ahead of counting day. TVK candidate N Marie Wilson said Vijay had instructed all party candidates to remain present at counting centres from early morning and closely monitor the counting process until completion.

Tamil Nadu voted in a single phase on April 23, recording a voter turnout of 85.14 percent. Counting of votes will be taken up on May 4.

Iran Reportedly Sends Fresh Proposal to US Through Pak Amid Gulf Tensions

NEW DELHI

Iran has reportedly sent a fresh proposal for negotiations with the United States through Pakistani mediators as tensions continue in the Gulf region amid the ongoing Iran-US-Israel conflict.

According to Iranian state media, the proposal was conveyed in an effort to revive diplomatic engagement and reduce regional instability. The development comes even as military tensions remain high around the Strait of Hormuz, a crucial global oil shipping route.

Meanwhile, French Foreign Minister Jean-Noel Barrot said a proposed US-led coalition aimed at reopening the Strait of Hormuz would complement existing French and British maritime security efforts rather than compete with them. The United Arab Emirates also expressed concern over navigation security in the Gulf. UAE presidential advisor Anwar Gargash said unilateral Iranian assurances regarding safe passage through Hormuz could not be fully trusted. Iran activated air defence systems on Friday to counter suspected drone and small aircraft threats.

DRUG CARTEL CRACKDOWN

Hidden in cricket gear, cocaine worth Rs 1,745 crore seized

MUMBAI

In one of the biggest drug busts in recent years, the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB) has seized 349 kg of high-grade cocaine worth around Rs 1,745 crore from multiple locations in the Mumbai region.

The cocaine was cleverly hidden inside cricket pads and gloves, exposing a sophisticated international narcotics network operating through warehouses and transport hubs.

The operation, codenamed White Strike, was conducted after more than six months of surveillance and intelligence gathering. Acting on specific inputs, NCB teams raided locations in the Kalamboli–Bhiwandi logistics corridor across Navi Mumbai and Thane.

The first seizure was made after officials intercepted a goods vehicle near the KWC Warehousing Complex in Kalamboli. During inspection, officers found 136 packets of cocaine weighing one kilogram each concealed inside cartons containing cricket equipment. One accused was arrested from the spot.

Based on information obtained during interrogation, NCB officials carried out another raid at a warehouse in Bhiwandi's Rehnal village, recovering an additional 213 packets of cocaine.

Officials said the drugs were hidden inside machine cavities imported into India and wrapped in multiple layers of polythene coated with greasy material to avoid detection. Investigators suspect the involvement of an organised transnational syndicate using warehouses and concealed transportation systems to distribute narcotics.

The agency is now trying to identify the masterminds, financiers, handlers and intended recipients linked to the consignment.

Union Home Minister Amit Shah praised the NCB for the successful operation and reiterated the Centre's commitment to eliminating drug networks. He described the seizure as a major breakthrough in India's fight against narcotics trafficking.

Authorities noted that annual cocaine seizures in India generally range between 200 and 300 kg, making this haul one of the country's largest ever recoveries.

MASSIVE COCAINE HAUL

- Total cocaine seized: 349 kg
- Estimated value: Rs 1,745 cr
- Hidden inside: Cricket pads and gloves
- Main locations: Kalamboli and Bhiwandi
- Operation codename: White Strike
- One accused arrested, investigation continues

"We are determined to ruthlessly crush narcotics cartels. This operation proves how intelligence-led investigations can dismantle large international drug trafficking networks operating in India."

K'taka considers law for paid menstrual leave, informs HC

Govt tells HC it is examining legislation granting women monthly paid menstrual leave

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has informed the High Court that it is considering enacting a law to provide one day of paid menstrual leave every month to women employees working in companies registered under various labour laws in the state.

The submission was made before a division bench headed by Justice Anant Ramnath Hegde during the hearing of petitions challenging a Labour Department notification issued on November 20, 2025.

The petitions were filed by organisations including the Karnataka Employers Association, Bangalore Hotels Association, Avirata Defense System and Bangalore Employers Association.

Appearing for the state government, Advocate General K Shashikaran Shetty informed the court that the government was examining the issue of introducing a comprehensive law to address menstrual leave with pay and sought postponement of the hearing.

He submitted that the proposed legislation was under active consideration and requested the court to defer further proceedings until the government finalised its position.

The bench observed that it had full confidence in the statement made by the Advocate General and asked whether the government's stand on considering a separate law should be formally recorded in the order. The Advocate General agreed to the suggestion.

Taking note of the submission, the bench stated that since the state government had indicated its intention to frame a law regulating menstrual leave, the matter could be adjourned until after the summer vacation. The court also noted that the hearing had already continued for a considerable period and that further deliberations by the government may help resolve the dispute.

At the same time, the bench clarified that the petitioners would be free to approach the vacation bench if any urgent developments arose during the court recess requiring immediate intervention. The issue of menstrual leave has triggered wider debate among employers, labour groups and women's rights organisations regarding workplace welfare, employee rights and implementation challenges in the private sector.

Cabinet clears ₹600 cr plan for minority colonies devpt

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka Cabinet approved a Rs 600-crore development plan for minority community colonies across the state, covering the financial years 2026–27 and 2027–28. The decision comes amid political debate over the timing of the scheme, with some viewing it as an appeasement measure following recent political developments, including the Davanagere South by-election controversy where a minority candidate was not given a ticket. However, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister H. K. Patil rejected such claims, saying the decision had no political motive attached to it. "There is no political connotation. The Minority Welfare Department had prepared an action plan for Rs 600 crore and the Cabinet has cleared it. Nobody was waiting to use it as a political tool," Patil said. He explained that the approval has been extended over two financial years because several infrastructure projects under the scheme may require more time for completion. The extended timeline, he said, was intended to ensure that works are not left unfinished midway.Officials said the programme aims to improve civic infrastructure, housing facilities, roads, drainage systems and basic amenities in minority-dominated localities across Karnataka. In the same Cabinet meeting, the government also approved a major land allotment deal for a leading California-based semiconductor company at the Bengaluru Signature Business Park in Devanahalli.

TRANSPORT SHORTAGE ISSUE

Inter-state bus shortage concerns commuters on Karnataka–Andhra routes

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Commuters travelling between Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh have urged the Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) to increase its bus fleet on key inter-state routes, citing severe shortage of services and frequent overcrowding, particularly during weekends and festival seasons.

Passengers said they are increasingly dependent on private operators due to limited state-run buses on routes such as Kadapa, Madanapalle, Tirupati and Srikalahasti via Chintamani–Madanapalle, and Bengaluru–Ramasamudram via Punganur.

- Current buses to Andhra Pradesh: 279
- Planned under new agreement: 420 new + 92 additional
- Daily KSRTC passengers: 34.8 lakh
- Fleet overaged: 40%
- Villages covered in Andhra: 20,090 of 21,748 (92.4%)

The All-Karnataka State Road Transport Employees' Federation said the overcrowding has worsened after the implementation of the state's free bus travel scheme for women. Drivers and conductors said they are under pressure managing excessive passenger loads, leading to delays and operational stress.

Federation secretary general B. Jayadevaraje Urs said nearly 40 per cent of KSRTC's fleet is overaged and still in operation due to delayed replacement and financial constraints. He said passenger demand has surged significantly, with occupancy rising from about 60 per cent earlier to nearly 90–95 per cent after the Shakti scheme.

He added that long waiting times, breakdown risks and safety concerns have increased due to the shortage of buses. The federation has demanded replacement of old vehicles and induction of new buses on priority.

According to the 2025–26 economic survey, KSRTC's daily ridership has increased to 34.8 lakh from 29.7 lakh before the scheme was introduced. KSRTC officials said the corporation currently operates 279 buses on routes to Andhra Pradesh under the existing inter-state transport agreement. They added that under a revised agreement, 420 buses are planned for new routes and 92 additional services for existing routes, pending final notification from Andhra Pradesh.

The government has also announced plans to induct 1,500 new buses in the 2026–27 financial year to strengthen the fleet.

Koppal protests intensify against nuclear project plan

CH NEWS, KOPPAL

The ongoing struggle to control industrial pollution and protect the environment in Koppal has reached a new stage, with residents and activists strongly opposing the proposed nuclear power plant project in the region. Concerns have grown after reports that the government is searching for land near ecologically sensitive areas including Bandekumata and surrounding hill ranges. Locals say these places are known for biodiversity, heritage sites, temples, and wildlife zones that attract tourists and support farming communities.

They fear that a nuclear plant could threaten the Tungabhadra river basin, which is the main source of irrigation and drinking water. Environmental groups and farmers argue that radiation risks may harm human health and destroy animal habitats within a wide radius. The Joint Action Forum has already withdrawn earlier proposed sites after protests from villagers in nearby Arasinakeri and Chikkabenakal. Now they say the focus has shifted again, increasing fear among residents who plan to intensify their agitation if the proposal continues.

Activists also highlight nearby forest reserves and hill ecosystems that host animals like leopards, bears, deer, and peacocks. They warn that large scale construction could permanently damage the environment and force displacement of villages around the project area. The forum is demanding that the nuclear plant plan be dropped immediately and independent studies be conducted on health and environmental impact. They also call for closure or relocation of polluting industries and protection of Basapura lake and surrounding water sources. Leaders said they will continue peaceful protests until authorities reconsider the proposal and ensure safety of people and nature. The movement has united farmers, environmentalists, and local organizations, who insist development should not come at the cost of life and ecology.

Protesters demanded GST reduction on commercial gas cylinders, subsidies for small traders, and long-term price stabilization policy

MYSURU

Strong resentment was expressed against the steep increase in the price of commercial LPG cylinders, with Youth Congress leaders stating that the Central Government has imposed yet another financial burden on small traders, hotel owners, and the common public.

They pointed out that the Modi-led Central Government has once again increased the price of commercial gas cylinders to ₹993, which has added to the difficulties faced by small businesses and the hospitality sector.

They also stated that the heavy burden of taxes is one of the main reasons for such uncontrolled price hikes and demanded immediate corrective measures from the government.The protesters placed three major demands before the government. They urged the Centre to immediately reduce GST and other taxes imposed on commercial gas cylinders, announce subsidies for small traders without delay, and formulate a clear policy to stabilize gas prices in the long term.They said they would continue their fight against what they termed as injustice and appealed to the public, traders, and hotel owners to join in large numbers and raise their voice for their rights.Raising the slogan, "Stop Price Rise – Save People's Lives," the protest was held under the leadership of Youth Congress National Secretary Nagesh Kariyappa.

The event was held near the Buddha statue in front of the Onake Obavva District Stadium and was organized jointly by the district administration, Zilla Panchayat, Kannada and Culture Department, and the Municipal Council.

MLA Pappi said Buddha's philosophy continues to guide humanity even centuries after being preached. He pointed out that Buddha once gave up his kingdom to stop a war over the sharing of river water, showing the highest form of sacrifice for peace.

CHANGE OF LEADERSHIP

Kharge's mixed signals deepen Karnataka Congress confusion

SHYAM SUNDAR VATTAM
MYSURU

The Congress party in Karnataka is once again caught in a familiar storm—one of leadership change, factional calculations, caste equations, and Delhi's strategic silence. Instead of clearing the air, the party high command appears to be sending mixed and confusing signals, leaving both camps—Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar—locked in a silent yet intense battle for the coveted Chief Minister's chair.As Siddaramaiah's government approaches its third anniversary on May 21, the million-dollar political question remains unanswered: Will Siddaramaiah continue for the remaining two years, or will D.K. Shivakumar finally get his long-awaited turn to occupy the CM gaddi?Supporters of D.K. Shivakumar are already dreaming of their leader taking the oath of office as Chief Minister.

For them, DKS is not merely a claimant but a deserving warrior who stood by the Congress during its darkest days, especially when the party was struggling to survive defections and internal collapse. They argue that rewarding his loyalty and political management is not just fair—it is politically necessary.

On the other hand, Siddaramaiah's loyalists are sounding alarm bells. They warn the Congress high command that replacing the incumbent Chief Minister could trigger serious political tremors across Karnataka. According to them, Siddaramaiah remains the strongest mass leader of the party, particularly among SCs, STs, Muslims, and backward classes—the crucial social blocs that helped Congress storm back to power in 2023.Their fear is simple: changing the captain midway could send the wrong message to these communities and destabilize the carefully built social coalition.

Bedti Varada river linking project faces opposition

SIRSI

The proposed Bedti–Varada river linking project has triggered strong opposition in Sirsi, after officials conducted a technical site inspection in dense forest areas without informing local residents or environmental groups.

According to sources, a team comprising officials from the National Water Development Agency and state engineering departments visited the region on April 28. The team reportedly carried out ground surveys and assessed potential routes for pipelines and underground tunnels through forest areas.

Environmental activists allege that the survey included evaluation of plans to lift water near the Pattanhalla stream, a tributary of the Bedti river, and to construct a large tunnel stretching between 6 and 15 kilometres. Officials are also said to have examined the feasibility of building a dam in the forested regions between Menasagoda and Pattanhalla.

Villagers confront MLA over long pending problems

KUDLIGI

Residents of Sunkadakallu village on the border of Kudligi and Hagaribommanahalli taluks in Vijayanagar district have expressed strong anger over lack of basic development for more than 20 years. During a visit by MLA N T Srinivas villagers raised issues including delay in issuing title deeds and poor basic facilities in the village. The villagers said repeated complaints to officials over the years had not brought any improvement in their living conditions.

Responding to their concerns the MLA immediately contacted concerned department officials on the spot and directed them to speed up distribution of title deeds and development works. However tension rose when villagers alleged negligence by the Panchayat Development Officer saying that even basic requests were ignored despite repeated appeals. Angry residents demanded action against the PDO claiming that administrative inaction had kept the village backward for decades.

Following the complaints MLA Srinivas escalated the matter by calling senior officials including the Chief Executive Officer and demanded immediate action against the responsible officer. Officials reviewed the allegations and decided to suspend the PDO with immediate effect pending further inquiry into the charges.

India Launches First Barrier-Free Tolling System on National Highway

Union Highways Minister Nitin Gadkari on Friday announced the launch of India's first Multi-Lane Free Flow (MLFF) barrier-less tolling system at the Choryasi toll plaza on the Surat–Bharuch stretch of National Highway-48 in Gujarat

SURAT

The initiative marks a major step toward fully automated toll collection and aims to transform highway travel across the country.

The newly introduced MLFF system eliminates the need for vehicles to stop at toll plazas, allowing seamless movement even on high-traffic routes. Developed as a pilot project, the Choryasi toll plaza lies on the busy Mumbai–Delhi corridor and is expected to serve as a model for nationwide implementation.

According to Gadkari, the system integrates Automatic Number Plate Recognition (ANPR) technology with FASTag infrastructure to enable automated toll deductions. Vehicles passing through the toll point are identified using high-resolution cameras and RFID sensors mounted on overhead gantries. The toll charges are then directly deducted from the user's linked account without any manual intervention.

This advanced system ensures that vehicles can maintain normal highway speeds while passing through the toll plaza, significantly reducing congestion and eliminating long queues that are typically seen at busy toll points. Officials noted that the system is also capable of detecting vehicles without valid FASTags using number plate recognition, after which notices for toll payment are issued.

The introduction of MLFF tolling is part of the government's broader push to digitise and modernise India's road infrastructure. Gadkari emphasised that the initiative aligns with global standards and represents a major leap in improving efficiency within the country's transport network.

He further highlighted that the system is expected to bring multiple benefits, including reduced travel time, improved fuel efficiency, and lower vehicular emissions. By eliminating the need for vehicles to idle at toll booths, the system also contributes to environmental sustainability.

The government has indicated that the Surat-based installation will act as a testing ground for wider adoption. Plans are already in place to expand MLFF technology to more than 1,000 toll plazas across India in the coming years, signaling a nationwide transition toward barrier-less tolling and smarter highway infrastructure.

AP Spends ₹33,000 Cr Annually on Social Pensions, Says Chandrababu Naidu

AMARAVATI

He emphasised that the programme reflects the government's commitment to supporting vulnerable sections of society. Addressing a public gathering in Krishna district after distributing pensions under the NTR Bharosa scheme, Naidu highlighted that around 62.47 lakh beneficiaries receive pensions every month. Over the past 22 months, the government has reportedly spent more than Rs 63,000 crore on the initiative, underlining the scale of welfare expenditure.

The Chief Minister said that the government ensures the availability of approximately Rs 2,700 crore every month to sustain the programme. He clarified that such spending is not viewed as a financial burden but rather as a responsibility aimed at providing relief and stability to economically weaker sections. According to him, the scheme plays a crucial role in improving the quality of life for millions of citizens.

Naidu participated in the 'Pedala Sevalo' programme in Pamidimukkala village of Pamarru constituency, where he directly interacted with beneficiaries. During the event, he reiterated the government's commitment to inclusive development and welfare-driven governance.

The Chief Minister also referred to the broader vision of rebuilding Andhra Pradesh in coordination with Deputy Chief Minister Pawan Kalyan and Prime Minister Narendra Modi. He stated that the coalition government, led by the Telugu Desam Party, has been working continuously for the past 22 months to restore administrative efficiency and revive development across sectors.

In addition to welfare measures, Naidu reaffirmed his government's promise to reduce electricity tariffs, stating that there would be no increase in power rates. He criticised previous administrations for imposing multiple electricity tariff hikes, claiming that such measures had placed an unnecessary burden on the public. The Chief Minister concluded by asserting that his government remains focused on balancing welfare initiatives with long-term development goals, ensuring both economic stability and social support for the people of Andhra Pradesh.

BJP Confident of Assam Victory: Jayanta Malla Baruah

GUWAHATI

Assam Minister Jayanta Malla Baruah on Friday expressed strong confidence in the Bharatiya Janata Party's prospects in the upcoming Assembly elections, predicting a decisive mandate for the ruling alliance and victory across key constituencies, including all three seats in Nalbari district.

Speaking to reporters, Baruah asserted that the BJP-led alliance is heading toward a sweeping victory in the state. He claimed that the electorate has already made up its mind in favour of the ruling party, adding that opposition parties, particularly those led by the Congress, would lose political relevance once the results are declared.

Baruah took a direct swipe at opposition leaders, stating that discussions around Congress and its allies would fade after May 4, when the election results are expected. He emphasised that the BJP's extensive grassroots campaigning and outreach efforts have generated strong public support across regions.

Focusing on Nalbari district, the minister said the party is confident of winning all three Assembly constituencies, highlighting it as a key battleground in Lower Assam. He further projected a significant overall victory for the BJP, estimating that the party would secure no fewer than 90 seats in the 126-member Assam Assembly.

According to Baruah, even crossing the 100-seat mark would not be surprising, given what he described as overwhelming support for the party. He pointed out that the BJP's position in Lower Assam has strengthened considerably over the past five years, compared to previous elections.

In the last Assembly elections, we won 20 out of 51 seats in Lower Assam. This time, we are confident of winning at least 35 seats in the region, he said, underlining improved organisational strength and voter outreach.

The minister also expressed optimism about the party's chances in Tamulpur, predicting a comfortable victory for BJP candidate Biswajit Daimary. He suggested that strong performances in constituencies like Nalbari and Tamulpur would play a decisive role in shaping the final election outcome.

With Lower Assam emerging as a crucial electoral zone, the BJP's performance in the region is expected to be a key determinant of its overall success.

BJP Targets Mamata Banerjee Over EVM Concerns, Predicts Political Shift in Bengal

KOLKATA

Bhattacharya claimed that the ruling Trinamool Congress leadership is anticipating electoral defeat and resorting to political theatrics. Speaking to media, Bhattacharya alleged that the people of West Bengal are growing weary of what he described as repeated political drama by the ruling party. He said that Banerjee's actions reflect an inability to accept the possibility of losing power after years of governance. According to him, the visit to the strongroom was not a genuine concern but a calculated move aimed at shaping public perception ahead of elections.

He further stated that the Trinamool Congress, having been in power for nearly 15 years, must now prepare for a shift in political dynamics. Bhattacharya remarked that the party has benefited from prolonged governance and now faces increasing public scrutiny and dissatisfaction.

The BJP leader also reiterated allegations of widespread corruption under the current administration. He claimed that various sectors, including education, public works, and contracting, have been adversely affected, alleging that irregularities have become deeply embedded in governance structures across the state.

Despite his criticism, Bhattacharya acknowledged Banerjee's personal political journey. He noted that she rose from a modest background and built her career through grassroots activism rather than political inheritance. He suggested that her understanding of the state's socio-political fabric is precisely why she recognises the changing mood among voters.

Referring to a recent remark made by the Chief Minister about the future of her party, Bhattacharya interpreted it as a sign of uncertainty within the Trinamool Congress. He argued that such statements indicate concerns about the party's long-term prospects in the state.

Boost to Naval Firepower as Sixth Project 17A Ship 'Mahendragiri' Delivered

MUMBAI

Mahendragiri, the sixth ship of Nilgiri-class (Project 17A), was delivered to the Indian Navy on Mumbai, marking a significant milestone in achieving self-reliance in warship design and construction, an official said on Friday.

Project 17A frigates are versatile multi-mission platforms designed to address current and emerging challenges in the maritime domain. Project 17A (P17A) of the Indian Navy consists seven advanced stealth guided-missile frigates. The seven ships, known as the Nilgiri-class, are: INS Nilgiri, INS Himgiri, INS Udaygiri, INS Taragiri, INS Vindhyagiri, INS Mahendragiri, and a seventh unnamed ship.

The state-of-the-art frigate Mahendragiri reflects a quantum leap in naval design, stealth, firepower, automation, and survivability, and stands as an admirable symbol of Aatmanirbharta in warship building, said a statement.

Designed by the Warship Design Bureau (WDB) and overseen by the Warship Overseeing Team (Mumbai), P17A frigates reflect a generational leap in indigenous ship design, stealth, survivability, and combat capability. Driven by the philosophy of Integrated Construction, the ship was built and delivered within envisaged timelines.

The P17A ships are fitted with an advanced weapon and sensor suite as compared to the P17 (Shivalik-class).

These ships are configured with Combined Diesel or Gas (CODOG) propulsion plants, comprising a diesel engine and a gas turbine that drive a Controllable Pitch Propeller (CPP) on each shaft, and a state-of-the-art Integrated Platform Management System (IPMS), said the statement. The potent weapon and sensor suite comprises anti-surface, anti-air, and anti-submarine warfare systems, it said.

Mahendragiri is the sixth P17A ship to be delivered to Indian Navy in the span of less than 17 months from the delivery of the first P17A (Nilgiri) by Mazagon Dock Shipbuilders Limited (MDSL), on December 20, 2024, said the statement. Delivery of Mahendragiri showcases the design, shipbuilding, and engineering prowess of the nation, and reflects Navy's unrelenting focus on Aatmanirbharta in both ship design and shipbuilding.

President praises Army training excellence at ARTRAC visit

President Droupadi Murmu visited the Headquarters of the Army Training Command in Shimla on Friday, commending its vital role in strengthening the operational readiness and future capabilities of the Indian Army

SHIMLA

During her visit to Army Training Command in Shimla, the President was received by Kavinder Gupta, Governor of Himachal Pradesh, along with Lieutenant General Devendra Sharma, General Officer Commanding-in-Chief of ARTRAC. The visit highlighted the strategic importance of the command in shaping the professional and operational standards of the Indian Army.

Officials briefed the President on the evolution of ARTRAC and its central role in delivering advanced training to Army personnel. The command focuses on enhancing operational efficiency, developing modern warfare strategies, and strengthening institutional capabilities across the force.

Lieutenant General Devendra Sharma outlined several innovative initiatives undertaken by ARTRAC. These include expanded training in drone operations, the adoption of niche and emerging technologies, and the introduction of Red Teaming, a concept designed to test strategies and improve decision-making by simulating adversarial scenarios. Efforts toward digitisation and automation within the Army were also highlighted as key priorities.

President Murmu acknowledged ARTRAC's comprehensive contribution to military development, including its involvement in designing warfare concepts, resource planning, and collaboration with friendly foreign nations and sister services. She described the command as a critical component in advancing national goals such as self-reliance and a stronger defense framework.

ARTRAC oversees 32 premier training institutions, playing a pivotal role in maintaining high standards of professionalism within the Indian Army. Its wide-ranging responsibilities provide a unique perspective on both the art and science of modern warfare.

During her interaction with senior officials, the President emphasized the importance of continuous innovation in military training to ensure national security. She encouraged the command to sustain its efforts in enhancing preparedness and adapting to evolving global security challenges.

'Maharashtra to Drive India's Growth with $1 Trillion Contribution Goal'

Jishnu Dev Varma, Governor of Maharashtra, on Friday said the state is poised to play a central role in achieving India's long-term economic ambitions, announcing a target contribution of $1 trillion toward the nation's growth vision

MUMBAI

Speaking at the Maharashtra Day celebrations held at Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj Park, the Governor emphasized that the state would be a key driver in fulfilling Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vision of transforming India into a $5 trillion economy. He expressed confidence that the state's roadmap, titled Viksit Maharashtra 2047, will accelerate development and position Maharashtra as a leader in economic progress.

Highlighting the broader national vision of Vikasit Bharat 2047, the Governor called upon citizens across all sectors to actively contribute toward building an inclusive and advanced society. He stressed that Maharashtra's economic strength and strategic initiatives would be instrumental in shaping India's future.

The Governor pointed to Maharashtra's rising stature as a global investment destination. He noted that Memorandums of Understanding worth Rs 31.25 lakh crore were signed at the World Economic Forum in Davos. Additionally, the state's new industrial policy aims to attract investments worth Rs 70.5 lakh crore, with the potential to generate up to 50 lakh direct jobs. To facilitate global investments, a dedicated Foreign Direct Investment desk has been established within the Protocol Department to streamline administrative processes.

Infrastructure development remains a major focus area for the state government. The Governor highlighted the approval of the Public-Private Partnership Policy 2026, developed by Maharashtra Institution for Transformation (MITRA), aimed at boosting infrastructure projects and economic efficiency. Among key projects, the Navi Mumbai International Airport is expected to emerge as a major aviation hub. The fully operational Mumbai Metro Line 3 (Aqua Line) is set to enhance urban mobility, while a 340-kilometre waterway network is being developed across the Mumbai Metropolitan Region.

The Governor also highlighted the development of Vadhavan Port, which is projected to become India's largest port and generate over 12 lakh direct jobs, significantly boosting trade and logistics capacity.

Focusing on agriculture, he reaffirmed the government's commitment to farmers' welfare.

The Central Bureau of Investigation has arrested two officials from the Central Govt Health Scheme in Meerut for allegedly accepting a bribe to facilitate a staff transfer, officials confirmed on Friday

CBI Arrests CGHS Officials in Meerut Bribery Case

MEERUT

The accused have been identified as Natasha Verma, Additional Director at the Central Government Health Scheme (CGHS) in Meerut, and her private assistant, Sunny. According to investigators, the case was registered on April 30 following a complaint alleging that a bribe of Rs 80,000 was being demanded to facilitate the transfer of a CGHS employee from Moradabad to Meerut.

Acting on the complaint, the CBI conducted a trap operation after verifying the allegations. During the operation, both accused allegedly agreed to accept a reduced bribe amount of Rs 50,000 from the complainant. Officials said the private assistant was caught red-handed while accepting the money on behalf of the Additional Director.

Following the successful trap, both Natasha Verma and her assistant were taken into custody. Investigators stated that the bribe was sought in exchange for processing the staff transfer, suggesting misuse of official authority within the department.

The arrests were made as part of standard anti-corruption procedures, which include verification of complaints and carefully monitored trap operations to ensure credible evidence. The agency indicated that such actions are part of ongoing efforts to curb corruption in government institutions.

Officials further said that the accused will be produced before a competent court, where the CBI is likely to seek custody for further interrogation. The investigation remains ongoing, with authorities examining whether other officials were involved in similar practices.

The case has once again highlighted concerns about corruption within administrative systems and the need for strict enforcement measures to ensure transparency and accountability in public services.

Foreign delegates highlight semiconductor, renewable energy opportunities at VGRC in Surat

SURAT

Foreign delegates at the two-day Vibrant Gujarat Regional Conference (VGRC) - South Gujarat in Surat, which commenced on Friday, highlighted growing international interest in the state's industrial ecosystem.

Representatives from Russia and Japan pointed to growing opportunities in sectors such as semiconductors and renewable energy.

Aleksandr Fursov, Deputy Consul General of Russia in Mumbai, said the conference reflects the depth of economic ties between the two countries.

Russia and India have a long-standing tradition of bilateral economic cooperation. We always view conferences like Vibrant Gujarat as a great opportunity for business people to meet each other, get to know each other better, and learn about the opportunities each country has and is ready to offer to its partners, he told IANS.

A delegate from Japan, Onio, underlined Gujarat's growing role in emerging industries.

Today I joined this conference as a speaker in the Japan session to introduce our organisation. From my understanding, the semiconductor industry is a very important and rapidly growing sector here in Gujarat. Also, Gujarat is known as the state with the highest solar panel installations in India, he said.

Earlier in the day, Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel inaugurated VGRC in Surat.

The two-day event, being held on May 1 and 2 at Auro University, is part of the state government's effort to extend the Vibrant Gujarat model to regional hubs and promote localised investment opportunities.

The conference is being held alongside the Vibrant Gujarat Regional Exhibition (VGRE), bringing together industries, MSMEs, startups and government bodies from districts across South Gujarat, including Surat, Bharuch, Navsari, Valsad, Tapi and Dang.

It features seminars, sector-focused discussions, business-to-business and business-to-government meetings, as well as a reverse buyer-seller meet aimed at facilitating partnerships.

Experts probe CDV source after five big cats die in Kanha reserve

BHOPAL

The heart of India's wildlife conservation framework has been shaken by the devastating deaths of Tigress T141 and her entire litter of four cubs at the Kanha Tiger Reserve in Madhya Pradesh in a span of just nine days. Preliminary investigations have pointed towards the Canine Distemper Virus (CDV) as the likely cause of the deaths and veterinarians and wildlife forensic experts are working to confirm the source of the deadly outbreak.

The deaths of Tigress T141 and her four cubs has raised alarms regarding a potential biological crisis in what is traditionally considered one of the nation's most secure tiger habitats.

According to reports and sources the tragic events began unfolding on April 21 when the first cub was found dead in the Amahi Nala area, followed shortly by the discovery of a second cub in a decomposed state on April 24.

By April 26, a third cub had succumbed to the mysterious illness, prompting an emergency rescue operation for the mother and her final surviving offspring.

On April 27, the critically-ill Tigress T141 and her last cub were moved to the Mukki Quarantine Centre for intensive care.

While a brief glimmer of hope appeared on April 28 when both animals showed signs of improvement and began to consume food, the situation took a tragic turn on Tuesday night.

Their condition deteriorated rapidly, leading to the death of the tigress on Wednesday morning and the eventual loss of her last cub too. Preliminary investigations have pointed towards the dreaded Canine Distemper Virus as the likely cause for the entire family being wiped out.

The Canine Distemper Virus is a pathogen regarded by experts as one of the most dangerous viral threats to tiger populations due to its highly contagious nature and high mortality rate. An exhaustive investigation is currently underway and veterinarians and wildlife forensic experts are working to confirm the source of the outbreak.

The carcass of the third cub has been transported to the School of Wildlife Forensic and Health in Jabalpur, while blood and tissue samples from the tigress and the last surviving cub are being analysed at specialised laboratories.

Nitish Kumar vacates Bihar CM residence on Buddha Purnima

PATNA

The iconic 1 Anne Marg, the official residence of the Chief Minister of Bihar, witnessed a significant political transition on Friday, symbolising a shift in the state's power dynamics.

Long considered the nerve centre of political authority in Bihar, 1 Anne Marg has been closely associated with the state's leadership and governance. Over the decades, the residence has served as the official home to successive chief ministers, making it a powerful symbol of political continuity and influence.

Friday's development marked a historic moment as the residence saw a transition reflecting broader changes in Bihar's political landscape. While details of the transition were not immediately disclosed, the significance of the event lies in its symbolic value, representing a shift in leadership and administrative control.

Located in the capital city of Patna, 1 Anne Marg has often been at the centre of political narratives in the state. The residence has hosted crucial meetings, policy decisions, and high-level discussions that have shaped Bihar's governance over the years.

Political observers view the transition as an important indicator of evolving power structures within the state. Such changes often reflect shifts in public mandate, party dynamics, or leadership strategies, and can have far-reaching implications for governance and policy direction.

GUJARAT PRO-INCUMBENCY

Gujarat Shows Shift to Pro-Incumbency Politics: PM

GANDHINAGAR

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday said Gujarat has demonstrated a transition from anti-incumbency to pro-incumbency politics, highlighting sustained public support for development-oriented governance. In a letter to Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel on the state's 66th foundation day, he credited consistent electoral victories to effective governance and citizen-focused policies.

In his message, the Prime Minister extended greetings to the people of Gujarat and described the occasion as significant, particularly in light of recent local self-government election results. He stated that the outcome reflects public approval of the state government's efforts to accelerate development and improve the quality of life for citizens.

Modi noted that while political discourse often revolves around anti-incumbency sentiments, Gujarat has set a contrasting example by consistently supporting incumbent governments. According to him, this shift indicates growing trust among voters in leadership that delivers tangible progress and remains responsive to public needs.

He further highlighted that since 1995, his party has received uninterrupted support in the state across multiple elections. This continuity, he said, has ensured political stability, which is crucial for long-term development planning and execution. Stable governance, he added, enables the implementation of large-scale reforms and infrastructure projects that benefit the wider population.

The Prime Minister also paid tribute to those who played a role in the formation of Gujarat and the Mahagujarat movement, acknowledging their lasting influence on the state's identity and progress. He said their contributions continue to inspire future generations and serve as a reminder of collective responsibility toward development.

Describing Gujarat as a land where tradition and modernity coexist, Modi emphasised its strong entrepreneurial culture and leading manufacturing capacity in India. He pointed out that the state's name has gained recognition across the country, reflecting its economic and cultural prominence.

Referring to resilience, he cited the example of the Somnath Temple, which has been rebuilt multiple times despite historical destruction, symbolising faith and perseverance. He also mentioned his upcoming visit to commemorate 75 years of the temple's re-consecration in 1951.

The Prime Minister acknowledged that Gujarat had faced challenges in the past, including periods of instability and social tensions, but praised the people for overcoming these difficulties.

Strait Tensions Deepen as Gulf States Question Iran's Intentions

A senior United Arab Emirates official has voiced strong doubts about Iran's credibility in managing the Strait of Hormuz

WASHINGTON

Concerns over stability in the strategically vital Strait of Hormuz intensified on Friday after a top United Arab Emirates official warned that Tehran could not be trusted to handle any unilateral arrangements in the region. The remarks come as efforts to resolve the ongoing conflict involving Iran remain stalled, despite a temporary ceasefire that has done little to ease tensions.

Two months into the war, the crucial maritime corridor remains largely closed due to an Iranian blockade, while the United States Navy continues to restrict Iranian oil exports.

The disruption has severely impacted global markets, cutting off nearly 20 percent of the world's oil and gas supply.

As a result, international energy prices have surged, raising fears of a broader economic slowdown.

Although a ceasefire was implemented on April 8, uncertainty persists.

Reports that Donald Trump could approve new military strikes to pressure Iran into negotiations pushed oil prices to a four-year high earlier this week.

Iranian officials, however, have signaled readiness for escalation, activating air defense systems and preparing for a potential short but intense military confrontation. Sources indicate that any U.S. strike could be followed by action from Israel.

The conflict has already seen significant military exchanges. Following joint airstrikes by the United States and Israel in late February, Iran retaliated by targeting U.S. bases and associated infrastructure across Gulf states. Meanwhile, Hezbollah launched missile attacks against Israel, prompting further retaliatory strikes on Lebanese territory.

Amid rising tensions, UAE presidential adviser Anwar Gargash emphasized that international law and collective global efforts must ensure safe navigation through the strait. He warned that Iran's previous actions against neighboring countries undermine any confidence in its commitments.

Diplomatic efforts have also hit a roadblock. While Pakistan has attempted to mediate, no new talks have been scheduled. Thousands have reportedly died in the conflict, primarily in Iran and Lebanon.

Adding to the uncertainty, President Trump faces a deadline under the War Powers Resolution to either conclude the conflict or justify its continuation before Congress. However, officials suggest the deadline may pass without significant developments, as the administration argues that hostilities effectively ended with the April ceasefire; despite ongoing instability in the region.

Transatlantic Strains Rise as Trump Targets European Leaders

WASHINGTON

Tensions between the United States and Europe have escalated sharply in recent weeks, as U.S. President Donald Trump launched a series of pointed criticisms and threats against key European allies.

European leaders are reportedly increasingly concerned by the unpredictable tone and policy direction of President Trump, whose recent remarks have strained diplomatic ties across the continent. In a sharp rebuke, Trump criticized German Chancellor Friedrich Merz over his stance on the Iran war, calling him totally ineffective. He further escalated tensions by threatening to withdraw approximately 36,400 U.S. troops stationed in Germany, a move that could significantly alter Europe's security landscape.

The criticism did not stop there. British Prime Minister Keir Starmer was also targeted in unusually personal terms, with Trump remarking that he is not Winston Churchill. He additionally warned of imposing steep tariffs on imports from the United Kingdom, raising fears of a potential trade dispute between long-standing allies.

Perhaps most alarming for European policymakers are signals from the United States Department of Defense suggesting punitive measures against NATO members perceived as insufficiently supportive of U.S. military operations in Iran. Among the proposals under discussion are suspending Spain from the NATO alliance and reconsidering U.S. recognition of the Falkland Islands as a British territory.

Diplomatic sources across Europe describe the atmosphere as tense and unpredictable. One European diplomat said the situation is unnerving, noting that governments are preparing for sudden policy shifts from Washington. The renewed friction has drawn comparisons to the early phase of Trump's presidency, when relations with European allies were frequently strained.

Some officials are looking to past experience for guidance. A second diplomat pointed to former German Chancellor Angela Merkel as an example of how to manage relations with Trump. Merkel, who had a notably difficult relationship with the U.S. president during his earlier term, adopted a strategy of patience and restraint.

According to the diplomat, European leaders have learned that immediate reactions often worsen tensions. Instead, they are advised to maintain firm positions while allowing political storms to subside. Attempts at flattery, once seen as a potential diplomatic tool, have proven ineffective, with even conciliatory leaders facing criticism.

Azerbaijan summons EU envoy in row over treatment of Karabakh Armenians

BAKU

Azerbaijan summoned the EU's ambassador on Friday to protest against a European Parliament resolution, opens new tab condemning Baku's detention of Armenian prisoners of war and backing the rights of Armenians from Nagorno-Karabakh.

The resolution denounced what it called Azerbaijan's unjust detention of Armenian prisoners of war, detainees and hostages and demanded their immediate release. It also reiterated the European Union's support for the rights of Nagorno-Karabakh Armenians and called for accountability for the destruction of their cultural and religious heritage.

Azerbaijan's Foreign Ministry dismissed the resolution as unfounded and biased, saying Karabakh Armenians had left the region voluntarily. It said those described by the EU as prisoners of war had committed serious crimes, including war crimes.

Ethnic Armenians in Karabakh, an internationally recognised part of Azerbaijan, broke away from Baku's control as the Soviet Union fell apart in 1991. Azerbaijan and Armenia fought two wars over the mountainous territory before Baku took it back in 2023 and its entire ethnic Armenian population of around 100,000 people fled to neighbouring Armenia.

Karabakh officials captured at that time were placed on trial in Baku in January 2025, accused of a battery of charges including war crimes. International human rights groups have raised concerns about the fairness of the trial.

In February, Ruben Vardanyan, an Armenian-born billionaire banker who served as a senior official in Nagorno-Karabakh, was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

More than 100 pro-Palestinian activists attempting to deliver humanitarian aid to Gaza were detained and taken to the Greek island of Crete after Israeli forces intercepted their vessels

ACTIVISTS DETAINED AFTER GAZA AID FLOTILLA SEIZED NEAR GREECE

ATHERINOLAKKOS

The activists were part of the Global Sumud flotilla, a civilian-led effort aimed at breaking Israel's blockade of Gaza Strip and delivering essential supplies to its residents. The convoy of ships had departed from Barcelona on April 12, carrying food, medical aid, and other humanitarian materials.

According to organisers, Israeli naval forces intercepted at least 22 vessels late on Wednesday in international waters near the Peloponnese peninsula, a region of Greece located hundreds of miles from Gaza. On Friday, 168 activists were transferred from Israeli custody onto Greek vessels and taken to Crete, where they were received by local authorities. Two activists reportedly remained in Israeli custody.

Despite the seizure, organisers stated that dozens of other boats—approximately 47—remain in the Mediterranean Sea near southern Crete and are expected to regroup before continuing their journey toward Gaza. Each vessel is said to be carrying around one ton of humanitarian supplies.

The Israeli government strongly criticized the flotilla, with its foreign ministry labeling organisers as professional provocateurs. Meanwhile, international reactions have been mixed. Foreign ministries from Germany and Italy issued a joint statement expressing deep concern over the developments. The United States Department of State warned it could impose consequences on individuals or groups supporting the flotilla, alleging links to Hamas—a claim activists strongly deny.

Participants in the flotilla argue that their mission is purely humanitarian and aimed at supporting Palestinian civilians, not political or militant causes. They accuse Israel and the United States of conflating advocacy for Palestinian rights with support for extremist groups.

This is not the first such attempt. In a similar incident last October, Israeli forces intercepted another flotilla organized by the same group, detaining over 450 participants, including Swedish climate activist Greta Thunberg.

Humanitarian conditions in Gaza remain dire. Despite a ceasefire agreement reached last October that included provisions for increased aid, relief organizations report that supplies are still insufficient. With a population exceeding two million, the majority of Gaza's residents have been displaced, many living in temporary shelters, damaged buildings, or open areas with limited access to food, water, and medical care.

U.S. Navy Deploys AI to Counter Iranian Mines in Strategic Waterway

WASHINGTON

The United States Navy is accelerating the use of artificial intelligence to detect and neutralize Iranian naval mines in the Strait of Hormuz, as tensions in the region continue to threaten global trade and energy supplies.

Amid ongoing instability involving Iran, the United States is stepping up technological efforts to secure one of the world's most critical maritime routes.

The Strait of Hormuz, a narrow passage through which a significant portion of global oil shipments flows, has been at the center of a geopolitical standoff that has disrupted international markets.

President Donald Trump recently stated that U.S. naval forces are actively clearing Iranian mines from the waterway, though experts warn the process could take months due to the complexity of underwater mine detection. The situation persists despite a fragile ceasefire between Washington and Tehran following weeks of conflict.

To speed up operations, the Navy has awarded a contract worth up to $99.7 million to Domino Data Lab, a San Francisco-based artificial intelligence firm. The contract is part of the Navy's broader initiative known as Project AMMO, which aims to modernize mine detection capabilities using advanced machine learning tools.

The new AI platform is designed to train unmanned underwater vehicles (UUVs) to identify and classify naval mines more efficiently. By integrating data from multiple sensors—including sonar and visual imaging systems—the software allows real-time monitoring of detection accuracy and enables rapid updates to improve performance in the field.

According to Domino Data Lab's Chief Operating Officer, Thomas Robinson, the initiative marks a shift in naval operations. Mine-hunting used to be a job for ships; it is becoming a job for AI, he said, emphasizing the importance of speed and adaptability in high-risk environments.

Previously, updating AI systems to recognize new or unfamiliar mine types could take up to six months. With the new platform, that timeframe has reportedly been reduced to just a few days.

Trump Returns to Public Events Amid Security Concerns and Political Pressure

FLORIDA

U.S. President Donald Trump is set to make his first public appearance outside the White House since a foiled assassination attempt, as he travels to Florida under heightened security and increasing political challenges during his second term.

The president's visit to The Villages, a large retirement community in Florida known for its strong Republican support, marks a significant moment following recent security threats. The trip comes amid growing scrutiny over his safety arrangements after an alleged plot to attack him and other officials was thwarted.

During the visit, Trump is expected to promote new policy measures, including proposed tax deductions for senior citizens and improvements to accessibility within the Social Security Administration. These initiatives are aimed at appealing to older voters, a key demographic in upcoming elections.

However, the president faces mounting political pressure as his approval ratings decline. According to a Reuters/Ipsos poll, more than 60 percent of voters disapprove of his performance, while his approval rating has dropped to 34 percent; matching the lowest level recorded at the end of his first term. That period was marked by the aftermath of the United States Capitol attack January 6, when a mob of his supporters stormed the Capitol following his election loss.

Economic concerns continue to weigh heavily on the administration. Rising fuel prices, driven in part by ongoing tensions involving Iran and a U.S. naval blockade, have pushed gasoline costs to their highest levels in nearly four years. Additionally, recent data from the United States Department of Commerce shows inflation increasing at its fastest pace in three years, adding to public frustration over the cost of living.

Economist Michael Strain of the American Enterprise Institute noted that while broader economic factors contribute to affordability issues, the administration has not effectively addressed voter concerns through policy.

The recent assassination attempt—reportedly the third targeting Trump in less than two years—has further intensified the political atmosphere. Although such incidents have historically led to temporary boosts in presidential approval ratings, it remains unclear whether this will shift public opinion in Trump's favor.

PROTECT LONDON STABBING TERROR

Man charged with attempted murder after London stabbing

LONDON

A 45-year-old man has been charged with attempted murder following a stabbing attack targeting two Jewish men in north London, an incident that authorities are treating as a suspected act of terrorism amid rising security concerns across the United Kingdom.

The accused, Essa Suleiman, appeared before Westminster Magistrates' Court on Friday in connection with the violent attack that took place in the Golders Green area of north London. Prosecutors charged him with two counts of attempted murder, as well as possession of a bladed weapon.

The victims, identified as 34-year-old Shloime Rand and 76-year-old Moshe Shine, were stabbed during the incident. Authorities confirmed that Rand has since been discharged from hospital, while Shine remains in stable condition. The attack has heightened alarm in the local community, particularly in Golders Green, which is known for its significant Jewish population.

In response to the incident and a series of recent attacks targeting Jewish premises, the United Kingdom raised its national terrorism threat level to the second-highest category. This classification indicates that another attack is considered highly likely within the coming months. Officials believe the stabbings may be linked to broader patterns of targeted violence, prompting urgent security reviews.

Prime Minister Keir Starmer condemned the attack and pledged stronger measures to ensure the safety of Jewish communities across the country. The United Kingdom is home to approximately 290,000 Jewish residents, many of whom have expressed concern over increasing hostility and threats in recent weeks.

Authorities are also reviewing future public demonstrations, including pro-Palestinian marches, which could face tighter restrictions as part of enhanced security measures. The move reflects growing pressure on the government to prevent further violence and maintain public order.

During the court hearing, prosecutor Emma Harraway told the court that Suleiman allegedly carried out another attack earlier the same day in south London, targeting a former acquaintance. This has led to additional charges of attempted murder related to that separate incident.

Suleiman, a British national originally from Somalia, was remanded in custody and is scheduled to appear next at Old Bailey on May 15.

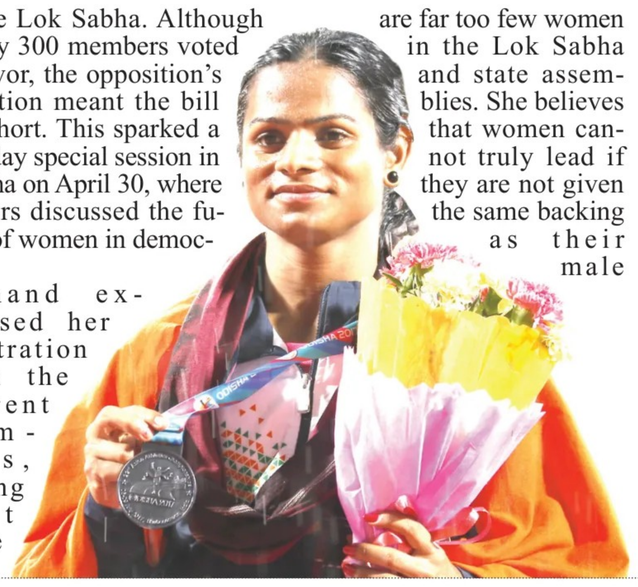
Olympic sprinter Dutee Chand urged greater political representation for women following the failure of a landmark reservation bill

BHUBANESWAR

Olympic sprinter Dutee Chand is calling for a major shift in Indian politics, urging for more support and better representation for women. Following a special session of the Odisha Assembly, Chand highlighted that while women are excelling in sports and business, they are still pushed to the sidelines in government.

The debate comes after a tense political showdown in New Delhi. On April 17, a major constitutional bill that aimed to reserve one-third of seats for women failed to pass in the Lok Sabha. Although nearly 300 members voted in favor, the opposition's rejection meant the bill fell short. This sparked a one-day special session in Odisha on April 30, where leaders discussed the future of women in democracy.



Chand expressed her frustration with the current numbers, noting that there are far too few women in the Lok Sabha and state assemblies. She believes that women cannot truly lead if they are not given the same backing as their male counterparts. "Women are progressing everywhere today," she said, "but in politics, they do not get the support they deserve."

The failed bill has triggered a massive political row. The BJP has accused other parties of blocking progress, even organizing marches to protest the decision. Meanwhile, Chand remains focused on the human side of the issue. She insists that for India to truly move forward, women must have a seat at the table where the biggest decisions are made. For her, this isn't just about politics, it's about basic fairness.

FIFA chief insists Iran will play in USA

ZURICH

FIFA President Gianni Infantino has confirmed that Iran will "of course" participate in the upcoming World Cup and play their scheduled matches in the United States. Despite rising political tensions between the two nations, Infantino stressed that his primary responsibility is to "bring people together" through the power of football.

The situation became complicated following the death of Iran's Supreme Leader, which led to calls for Iran's fixtures to be moved to Mexico or Canada. There was even speculation that Italy might replace them. However, during a meeting in Vancouver, Infantino dismissed these rumors. He made it clear that there are no grounds to expel Iran and that the tournament's 48-team format remains unchanged.

The drama intensified when Iranian delegates were initially denied entry into Canada for a FIFA meeting. While Canada called the incident "unintentional," the Iranian team skipped the event in protest. US President Donald Trump also weighed in, expressing safety concerns earlier in the week. However, after Infantino's firm stance, Trump told reporters he is now "okay" with the team competing on American soil.

Iran is currently placed in Group G and is set to face New Zealand in Los Angeles on June 15. While Iran's Sports Minister says a final decision depends on "security conditions," FIFA has ruled out relocating any matches. As the June 11 kickoff approaches, the football world is watching closely to see if diplomacy can win out over political friction on the pitch.

Cadillac debuts major upgrades for its first home race in Miami, while Max Verstappen remains uncertain about his future

NEW CADILLAC TEAM READY FOR MIAMI HEAT

MIAMI

The roar of engines at the Hard Rock Stadium carries a special significance this weekend as Cadillac, Formula One's newest team, prepares for its first-ever home race. Backed by General Motors, the American squad is looking to make a big splash at the Miami Grand Prix with a major car makeover designed to boost their speed.

Team boss Graeme Lowdon confirmed the team has brought a "sizeable" upgrade package to Florida. The changes focus on the car's floor, wings, and brakes, aiming to make the vehicle lighter and more aerodynamic. After several races in the Middle East were canceled, the team used the unexpected break to fine-tune these parts away from the pressure of the track.

Drivers Valtteri Bottas and Sergio Perez are optimistic about the weekend. While the team is still hunting for its first championship point, they have already outperformed some seasoned rivals like Aston Martin. Bottas noted that the car has felt smoother with every race, and he hopes these new American-made improvements will allow them to leapfrog the competition.

Beyond the track, Cadillac is leaning into its roots. The cars will sport a special U.S.-themed look for the event, and the team is shifting its hiring focus to recruit more talent from within the United States. Lowdon says the fans are already responding to the American spirit they bring to the grid. For Cadillac, Miami isn't just another race; it is the beginning of a long-term journey to the top.

Verstappen delays decision, calls rules changes weak

Max Verstappen said he is not rushing to decide his future in Formula One and described recent rule changes as minor. Speaking before the Miami Grand Prix, the Red Bull driver said he still has time to think about what comes next. The four-time world champion has been critical of the sport's new engine plans and hinted he could leave if things do not improve. Uncertainty grew after news that his race engineer, Gianpiero Lambiase, will join McLaren in the future. Verstappen said the move would not affect his decision and added he would adapt. He also said recent rule updates, introduced after race disruptions, were only a small step and not enough to bring major change. The changes aim to improve safety and energy use, but Verstappen believes more action is needed.

India dominates table tennis to reach stage two

LONDON

India's men's and women's table tennis teams have stormed into the second stage of the World Team Championships after a flawless performance in London. Both squads finished at the top of their groups, securing dominant victories in their final opening-round matches at the OVO Arena, Wembley.

The Indian women's team was in peak form, crushing Rwanda with a 3-0 scoreline. Star Olympian Manika Batra set a fierce pace, losing only nine points in a total demolition of her opponent. Teammate Diya Chitale followed with another swift victory before young talent Syndrela Das sealed the win. This follows earlier successes against Ukraine and a walkover against Uganda, leaving the women's side undefeated as they head into the next round.

The men's team mirrored this success with a clinical 3-0 sweep over Guatemala. Veteran Sathiyan Gnanasekaran led from the front with a straight-sets win, followed by a composed performance from Manav Thakkar. Payas Jain delivered the final blow to ensure the men also finished atop their group. Earlier wins against Tunisia and Slovakia proved that the Indian men are serious contenders in this year's tournament.

The championships feature 64 nations battling for the global crown, with the finals set for May 10. By topping their respective tables, India has avoided tougher early draws in the knockout phase. With the top players finding their rhythm early, the nation's hopes for a podium finish have never looked stronger as the competition moves to the high-stakes second stage.

Expert claims Maradona struggled with mental health

BUENOS AIRES

A psychologist testifying in the trial over Diego Maradona's death shared deeply personal details about the soccer legend's mental health. Carlos Diaz told an Argentine court that the iconic captain suffered from bipolar disorder and narcissism. These revelations come as Diaz and six others face serious charges of manslaughter related to Maradona's passing.

Diaz, who began treating the star just weeks before he died in 2020, described a man of extremes. He told the court that while Maradona could bring an entire nation to its knees with his talent, a single glass of alcohol could do the same to him. The psychologist's plan for the star was strict, total abstinence from drinking. Diaz recalled being shocked during their first meeting, seeing Maradona drinking wine on a couch, which reminded him of his own father's battle with addiction.

The trial is investigating whether the medical team provided improper care. Diaz defended his actions, noting that toxicology reports showed Maradona had been clean from drugs for over three weeks before he passed away. Meanwhile, neurosurgeon Leopoldo Luque also testified, insisting that the home care provided to the 60-year-old was appropriate for his needs at the time.

Maradona, who famously led Argentina to a World Cup victory in 1986, died shortly after undergoing brain surgery. As the legal battle continues, the court is working to decide if his doctors are criminally responsible for the loss of one of the world's greatest sporting heroes.

Indian men aim for Thomas Cup semis

HORSENS

The Indian men's badminton team is set for a high-stakes quarterfinal clash against Chinese Taipei in Denmark. After finishing as runners-up in their group, the 2022 champions are determined to fight their way back to the podium in this prestigious global tournament.

India's journey to the knockouts has been a mix of dominance and narrow escapes. They started the competition with powerful wins over Canada and Australia, proving they are still a force to be reckoned with. However, they faced a minor setback in their final group match, losing a tight 3-2 contest to defending champions China. Despite that loss, stars like Lakshya Sen and the world-class doubles duo of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty remain in excellent form.

Chinese Taipei will be a difficult hurdle, having topped their own group with impressive victories over Sweden and Denmark. They are known for their resilience and tactical play, making this matchup one of the most anticipated of the round. While the men are flying high, the Indian women's team unfortunately exited the Uber Cup earlier this week after failing to clear the group stage. All eyes are now on the men to uphold the nation's badminton glory. With the finals coming up, the Indian squad knows that every point counts as they chase their second Thomas Cup title in four years.

Pakistan economy hit by severe fuel shock crisis

NEW DELHI

Pakistan is facing its most serious fuel-price shock in more than 50 years, with rising global oil costs triggering wide-ranging economic risks, according to a recent report.

The surge has hit Pakistan particularly hard due to its heavy reliance on imported energy and remittances from Gulf countries. The country's already fragile balance-of-payments position is expected to come under further pressure, worsening macroeconomic instability.

Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif said the oil import bill has nearly tripled to $800 million from $300 million before the current global disruptions, wiping out recent economic gains. The spike is expected to ripple across sectors including agriculture, transport, and food supply chains, pushing up inflation and deepening the cost-of-living crisis.

Economists warn that higher fuel prices typically reduce purchasing power, slow economic activity, and increase unemployment and poverty. The situation has also intensified political pressure on the government amid rising public dissatisfaction.In response, the State Bank of Pakistan raised its policy rate to 11.5 per cent, citing heightened global energy costs, freight charges, and supply chain disruptions. However, policymakers face difficult choices between raising consumer fuel prices or increasing subsidies, both of which carry fiscal risks.International financial constraints, including conditions set by the IMF, further limit Pakistan's ability to expand subsidies, adding to fiscal stress and economic uncertainty.

Pakistan faces severe fuel-price shock as global oil surge deepens inflation, strains imports, widens fiscal pressure, and threatens economic stability amid rising public hardship.

Women workforce participation sees strong growth in India

NEW DELHI

India has recorded significant progress in women's workforce participation and social protection coverage, the government said on Friday on the occasion of International Labour Day. Social protection coverage expanded sharply from about 19% in 2015 to over 64% in 2025, reflecting wider access to welfare schemes and formal support systems.At the same time, female labour force participation has risen from 23.3% in 2017–18 to 40% in 2025, according to the Periodic Labour Force Survey. This growth highlights a structural shift, particularly in rural India, where women are increasingly engaging in consistent, income-generating work rather than occasional employment.The government noted that improved access to skills, financial inclusion, and social security has enabled more women to participate actively in the economy. Expansion of healthcare services under the Employees' State Insurance Scheme has further strengthened worker welfare. A new ESIC hospital in Budgam is expected to serve over 50,000 workers and their families.Entrepreneurship among women is also rising, especially through the Deendayal Antyodaya Yojana–National Rural Livelihoods Mission, which has mobilised over 10 crore households into self-help groups. Initiatives like the Lakhpati Didi programme aim to help women earn sustainable incomes through better access to credit and markets.India's growing startup ecosystem, with over 2.2 lakh recognised startups, further reflects this trend, with more than one lakh ventures having at least one woman director, signalling greater gender inclusion in business leadership.

Force majeure invoked due to regional geopolitical crisis

वित्त मंत्रालय
MINISTRY OF FINANCE
सत्यमेव जयते

NEW DELHI

The government has announced relief measures for businesses affected by ongoing disruptions in West Asia, allowing extension of contract deadlines without penalties to ease operational and financial stress caused by geopolitical instability.

According to the official memorandum, contractors engaged in government procurement of goods, services, and works will be eligible for deadline extensions if delays are directly linked to force majeure conditions arising from the regional crisis. The relief applies to contracts due on or after February 28, 2026, with extensions ranging from two to four months depending on case evaluation.

The move ensures that suppliers, consultants, and contractors will not face penalties for delays caused by disrupted supply chains, freight escalation, or logistical bottlenecks triggered by the situation in West Asia. Authorities clarified that such relaxations will be granted only after verifying that the contractor was not already in default prior to the disruptions.

Officials said the decision is aimed at maintaining continuity in public procurement while protecting businesses from unforeseen geopolitical risks. The relief framework also emphasizes that contractual obligations will resume once the disruption period ends, ensuring that project execution remains on track in the long term.

The measure comes amid broader government efforts to stabilize trade and industry sectors affected by the West Asia crisis, including export facilitation schemes and logistics support initiatives already in place.

Overall, the policy is expected to provide breathing space to companies struggling with rising costs, delayed shipments, and supply chain uncertainty, while safeguarding government project timelines and financial discipline.

INDIA-AFRICA TIES

India, AfDB deepen ties ahead of Africa summit

NEW DELHI

India and the African Development Bank Group are expanding cooperation across key sectors as momentum builds for the India-Africa Forum Summit 2026, scheduled to be held in New Delhi.

The growing partnership focuses on digital infrastructure, industrial development, and financial collaboration, aligning with the Bank Group's strategic priorities known as the "Four Cardinal Points". These emphasise improving access to capital, strengthening financial and digital systems, and accelerating industrialisation across African economies.India, which joined the Bank Group in 1983, has consistently supported its capital increases, helping enhance its capacity to finance infrastructure, development projects, and economic recovery initiatives across member countries. This support has also translated into greater participation by Indian companies in Bank-funded projects.Between 2020 and 2025, Indian firms secured 173 contracts worth around $760 million, accounting for 5.3 per cent of total procurement. This reflects growing private sector engagement and stronger project delivery capabilities. Economic ties between India and Africa have also expanded significantly, with bilateral trade nearing $100 billion in 2024–25. Key sectors driving this growth include infrastructure, energy, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, and technology.

Digital public infrastructure has become a major pillar of cooperation. India contributed $2 million to the African Digital Financial Inclusion Facility in 2023 and signed a $6 million agreement under the India Trust Fund in 2024 to support digital payments and financial inclusion.

Healthcare and industrial development remain central, particularly efforts to boost pharmaceutical manufacturing and reduce import dependence across Africa.

Bishop slams controversial catch that cost RCB

Former star Ian Bishop criticized a controversial catch involving Rajat Patidar, sparking debates over umpiring standards in Ahmedabad

AHMEDABAD

A heated debate has erupted in the cricket world following a disputed catch during the clash between Bengaluru and Gujarat. Former star Ian Bishop claims there was plenty of proof to keep Rajat Patidar on the field, sparking fresh questions about umpiring standards.

The drama unfolded in the eighth over when Patidar hit a low ball toward the boundary. Jason Holder dived for the catch, but the ball appeared to brush the grass as he slid. While the Bengaluru players immediately protested, the third umpire ruled it a fair catch. This decision left the dugout stunned and sparked a long, visible argument between Virat Kohli and the match officials.

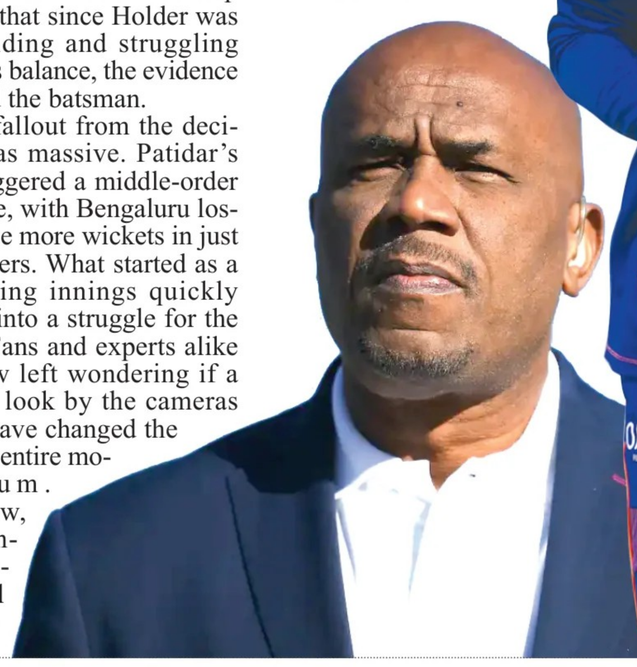
Bishop, speaking on the incident, noted that Holder's hand was facing the sky, meaning the ball was likely touching the turf. According to cricket rules, a fielder must have total control of both the ball and their body movement for a catch to count. Bishop argued that since Holder was still sliding and struggling with his balance, the evidence favored the batsman.

The fallout from the decision was massive. Patidar's exit triggered a middle-order collapse, with Bengaluru losing three more wickets in just four overs. What started as a promising innings quickly turned into a struggle for the team. Fans and experts alike are now left wondering if a second look by the cameras could have changed the game's entire momentum. For now, the controversial call remains the talk of the tournament.



New Zealand captain Mitchell Santner is sidelined for a month with a severe shoulder injury, missing key Tests against Ireland and England while undergoing urgent recovery

Captain Mitchell Santner out with shoulder injury

AUCKLAND

New Zealand's cricket captain, Mitchell Santner, has been sidelined for at least a month following a serious shoulder injury. Scans revealed a grade three ACL injury in his left shoulder, a major blow for both the player and his national squad.

The injury happened while Santner was playing in India for the Mumbai Indians. During a high-stakes match against Chennai, the all-rounder hurt himself while fielding. He was seen in the dugout using an ice pack as his team brought in a substitute player. This was not his first struggle this season, as he had been dealing with pain in that same shoulder since early April. Despite trying to play through the discomfort in several matches, the final blow came during the game against Chennai, forcing him to fly home.

The Mumbai Indians have already moved on, signing South African spinner Keshav Maharaj to take his spot. However, the bigger concern lies with the New Zealand national team. Santner is now officially ruled out of the upcoming Test match against Ireland and the opening Test against England in June.

Doctors in Auckland have ordered a strict period of rest and physical therapy. While he hopes to return for the later matches in the England series, his fitness will be checked weekly. For now, the star spinner faces a race against time to get healthy before New Zealand's tour of the West Indies begins this July. Fans are wishing the captain a very speedy recovery.

Gujarat star Rashid Khan urged his teammates to ignore middle-order criticism and focus on their world-class bowling strengths

Ignore weaknesses and play boldly, says Rashid

AHMEDABAD

Star spinner Rashid Khan believes focusing on a weak middle order only hurts the Gujarat Titans. While experts point to the team's struggling batters, Rashid insists that dwelling on flaws distracts the squad from winning matches and maintaining their competitive edge.

The Titans have leaned heavily on top-order stars like Shubman Gill and Jos Buttler this season. When they fail, the middle order often crumbles. However, Rashid argues that every team in the league has a hole in their lineup. Instead of worrying, he wants every player to make the most of the few balls they face. He noted that even a quick 20 runs can change a game's result.

Rashid's philosophy is simple, play to your strengths. For Gujarat, that strength is world-class bowling. By keeping the opposition to a low score, the pressure on the hitters naturally decreases. Rashid led by example in the recent win against Bengaluru, taking two wickets for just 19 runs. His disciplined bowling helped bowl the opponents out for 155, a target the Titans chased down with ease.

The Afghan leg-spinner explained that his success comes from hitting the right length consistently rather than worrying about the scoreboard. By focusing on his own job and trusting his teammates, he hopes to keep the Titans on the winning path. For Rashid, the secret to success is staying positive and ignoring the critics who only want to talk about what is going wrong.

Ashwin warns young star after vaping drama

NEW DELHI

Veteran spinner Ravichandran Ashwin has spoken out regarding the recent vaping controversy involving Rajasthan Royals captain Riyan Parag. Ashwin insists that such incidents cannot be ignored, stressing that leaders must maintain high standards of discipline in the public eye.

The trouble began during a match against Punjab when cameras caught Parag using a vaping device in the dressing room. The footage quickly went viral, leading to a 25 percent match fee fine for the young captain. Parag admitted to breaching the league's code of conduct, which forbids behavior that brings the game into disrepute.

Speaking on his YouTube channel, Ashwin acted as a mentor, calling the situation "totally avoidable." While he acknowledged that personal choices are private, he reminded Parag that his actions in a stadium are public. As a franchise leader and an inspiration to millions of young fans, Ashwin noted that Parag carries a heavy responsibility on his shoulders.

Ashwin expressed sympathy for the young player but stood firm on the need for punishment. He argued that if authorities brushed these mistakes under the carpet, no one would learn from them. The "elder brother" advice was clear, to keep personal habits in personal spaces to protect the integrity of the sport.

With the IPL season in full swing, this incident serves as a stern reminder to all athletes. In a world of constant camera coverage, there is no room for slips in professional conduct, especially for those leading a team.

Poor batting clusters cost Bengaluru an important match

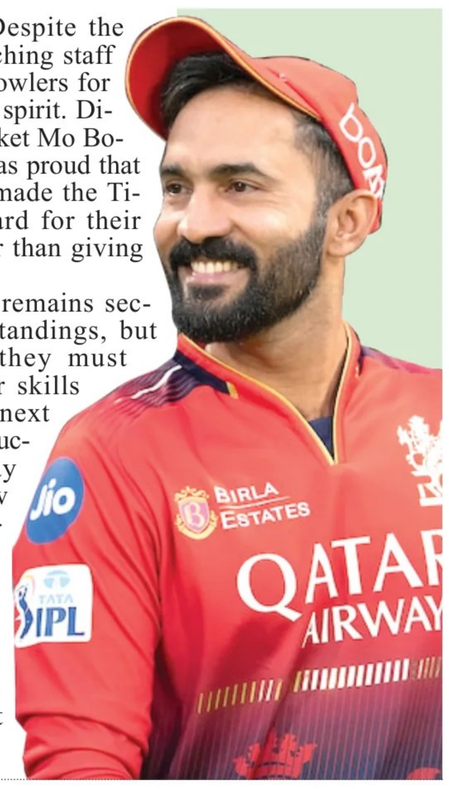
AHMEDABAD

Bengaluru batting coach Dinesh Karthik has blamed a sudden middle-order collapse for his team's disappointing four-wicket loss to the Gujarat Titans. Despite a brilliant start from star opener Virat Kohli, the team failed to build momentum, leading to a score that was far too low to defend.

The match began with "vintage" Kohli smashing 28 runs off just 13 balls, giving the fans exactly what they wanted. However, the excitement was short-lived. Every time Bengaluru looked ready to take control, they lost several wickets in a row. Karthik noted that losing players in "clusters" is a recipe for disaster in T20 cricket, as it stops the team from forming the long partnerships needed to set a high target.

While Devdutt Padikkal fought hard with a top score of 40, the rest of the lineup struggled. The team was eventually bowled out for 155, which Gujarat chased down easily with 25 balls remaining. Despite the loss, the coaching staff praised the bowlers for their fighting spirit. Director of Cricket Mo Bobat said he was proud that the bowlers made the Titans work hard for their victory rather than giving up.

Bengaluru remains second in the standings, but they know they must sharpen their skills before their next big game in Lucknow on May 7. After a few days off to recover, the team hopes to find their rhythm again and avoid the costly batting mistakes that hurt them.

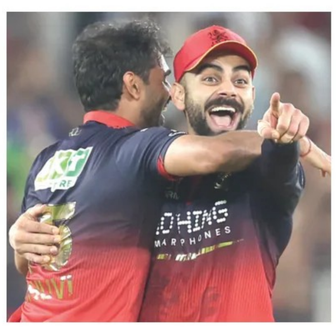


Bhuvneshwar says wickets were only winning key

AHMEDABAD

Veteran pacer Bhuvneshwar Kumar believes Bengaluru's failure to take early wickets was the primary reason for their four-wicket loss to Gujarat. Speaking after the game, the Purple Cap holder explained that trying to save runs on a small total was never going to work against a powerful batting side.

Bengaluru struggled to defend a target of 155, with the Titans reaching the mark in less than 16 overs. Bhuvneshwar defended the team's tactical choices, including the decision to keep spinner Krunal Pandya away from the crease. He noted that the captain opted for bowlers who offered the best chance of a breakthrough. According to the veteran, the only way to win was to bowl the opposition out, not to slow them down.



The pacer also stood by his batting unit, which has been strong throughout the season. He reminded critics that while the batters fell short, they have consistently scored over 200 runs in previous matches. He viewed the performance as a rare off-day in a long and grueling tournament.

Bhuvneshwar also highlighted the impact of dew, which has made chasing much easier for teams this year. Despite the loss, he remains the tournament's leading wicket-taker. However, the 36-year-old insisted that personal glory no longer drives him. He stated that his only focus is helping his team secure another title, noting that individual awards feel better when the team is actually winning games.

Sri Lanka youth players arrested in filming scandal

COLOMBO

Two Sri Lankan Under-19 cricketers were arrested for filming women at a hotel, adding to the turmoil facing the newly formed SLC Transformation Committee.

Two members of the Sri Lankan Under-19 cricket team have been arrested following shocking allegations of voyeurism at a hotel in Narahenpita. The teenagers are accused of using mobile phones to film women in their bathrooms, a scandal that has sent ripples through the nation's sporting community.

The arrests were made earlier this week after several women staying at the hotel filed official complaints. Local police are now working to determine if any of the recorded footage was shared on social media or other online platforms. After appearing at the Aluthkade Magistrate's Court, the players were released on a personal bail of approximately $1,564 each. They are scheduled to return for a second hearing on May 25.

This controversy hits at a time of total chaos for Sri Lanka Cricket (SLC). The entire leadership board, including former president Shammi Silva, resigned this week under government pressure. To fix the broken system, a new "Transformation Committee" has been formed. This panel includes legendary cricketers like Kumar Sangakkara and Roshan Mahanama, alongside legal and corporate experts.

While the new committee works to rebuild the board's reputation, they now face the immediate challenge of addressing this criminal investigation. So far, SLC has not announced specific disciplinary actions against the two youth players. However, with legends like Sangakkara now at the helm, fans are expecting a firm response to ensure that such behavior is never tolerated in the gentleman's game again.
